Omaha based Sculptor and Painter, Justin Queal, has worked as a Professional Artist since 1997. Queal sources his work from his diverse passions and life experience. With open awareness and articulate hands, he channels the play of energy between himself and his subject matter, picking up on the abstract subliminal world as well as the obvious conscious world. He turns to music, the organic designs of nature and the beauty of women for his inspiration. Queal has shown work in major cities in the U.S. His inspired designs and vibrant energy are the hallmarks of his unique work.

Queal thrives on creating just what is needed to bridge the gap between cultures, whether a corporate company wants to plug into local culture, a small business wants to project a unique and attention-getting image or a residential client wants to add original art to their home-life.
